

Why Calvary? Ministries

Chris Brewer

"A songwriter who actually addresses both the joy of knowing Christ and the long suffering that is needed to serve Him fully."

John Fisher, award winning songwriter, musician, author and columnist for Contemporary Christian Music Magazine

"Chris' ministry is one of passion, with a heart for this generation."

Jon Brennan, noted musician and youth speaker from MTV's "The Real World" television series

Often referred to as a "motivational speaker" Chris Brewer uses the profound message of the Gospel, a King's life in place of a pauper, to remind each of us of the "death defying love" of Christ.

In his new CD release Chris contemplates the poignant question, "Why Calvary?" "Who am I that a King would die for me?" And in response to a love that gives to no end and without excuse, what else can you do but lay down your own selfish ambitions and desires as an act of worship?

With a unique writing style Chris integrates scripture with personal experience to create songs of encouragement, challenge and hope. With a musical style that has been compared to "Jars of Clay," "Third Day," and "Rich Mullins" Chris' guitar driven songs have found favor with the teenagers as well as adults.

Chris Brewer

Growing up as a "pastor's kid" near Boston, Massachusetts, Chris first learned to play guitar by helping with Sunday worship services. Always encouraged to pursue music, he found opportunities to lead worship during the chapel services at Gordon College where he studied the Bible, youth ministries and Jazz guitar. Working as an accompanist for Gospel choirs and local musicians, Chris found himself musically by writing, playing, and singing with "3:sixteen" a ministry based band that performed original songs in settings as diverse as "secular" clubs to junior high youth groups. Moving to Florida in 1998 to work as a youth minister at a thriving church has given Chris a keen awareness of the needs of today's young people, and the power of the church as an instrument of God's grace.

Chris is now booking ministry opportunities for the 2001-2002 calendar. Please call or e-mail for dates and availability.
